Flow Of Creek, Hydrant Discussed By Tullytown

Efforts to control the turbulent flow of Martins Creek in old Tullytown, and to install a fire hydrant at Main street and Fellsington avenue, occupied the attention of Tullytown Borough Council last night.

Council heard a report by William Major, councilman and borough engineer, that the State Department of Forests and Waters has agreed to clear and reshape the creek, which frequently floods in the lower borough after flowing from the Levittown section.

Map Creek Course

Mr. Major was directed to make a map of the creek course, necessary if the state is to do the improvement, at a cost of $200.

The Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority, in a letter to council, replying to a request for a hydrant at the Main street-Fellsington avenue corner, said it would cost $4800. The communication said the Authority would pay $800 of the cost, and suggested that businessmen of old Tullytown share the remaining $2000 expense with council.

The high expense is due to the need of extending the water line to the old part of town, which does not have water and sewer service. The Authority noted that the pipe line would make it possible for the rest of the area to have water service.

Councilman Michael Piroli was directed to contact the businessmen and see if they will contribute the $2000.

The Authority also announced that the term of William Swanger as a member will expire Dec. 1. Council President Peter Santoro named Councilmen Oscar Bortner, Edward Boyer and Charles Mitchell as a committee to recommend an appointee for the post.

Mercantile Tax

As finance chairman, Mr. Piroli said he is preparing to re-negotiate the mercantile tax on retail and wholesale business. Mr. Santoro said next year's budget will provide a sinking fund. The council president said he was informed the tax map of the borough, in 15 sections, will be completed Oct. 10. Council will buy one, for $37.50, to use in numbering the houses for mail delivery.

Mr. Major read the building inspector's report, by William Farquhar, which included a permit for the new high school building for St. Michael's Archangel Catholic Church, to cost $1,021,000. The permit cost $1026, he said.

John Steen, fire chief and fire marshal, said he conducted two surprise fire drills, in connection with Fire Prevention Week. At the Walt Disney elementary school the 330 pupils left the building in less than a minute, he said. At St. Michael's parochial school, it took less than two and one-half minutes for the 1700 children to evacuate. Mr. Steen commended authorities at the two schools.

Joint Services

Mr. Santoro named Mr. Major and Borough Solicitor Jack Sirott to meet with Bristol township officials and discuss joint services provided Falls and Middletown.

Tullytown Tax Assessments Rise

Tax assessments on a number of Tullytown properties have been greatly increased, Borough Solicitor Jack Sirott told Council last night.

Following tax appeals he filed, the attorney said the assessments on properties owned by Lionel Friedman and Co. were raised 12 and one-half to 16 percent; Halperin Co. properties by 60 to 500 percent; the William Penn Building and Loan Association by 250 percent and the Warner Co. properties by $63,000.

SKI CLUB TO MEET

The Levittown Ski Club will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the home of John Kane, 2 Goodrock road, Levittown.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

Congratulations are in order to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rush, 172 Goldenridge drive, on the birth of a baby girl, Theresa Mary, last week in Frankford Hospital in Philadelphia. We'll stick our neck out and say this was probably the biggest baby born in Bucks County this year. She was twenty-four inches long and weighed 11 pounds, and 10 1/4 ounces. Those Texans "ain't" got nothing on us.

Great snakes alive! In describing a black snake that wandered into the carport of Mr. and Mrs. William Betts, 97 Village lane, Violetwood, Jon VonBlum, age 9, said, "It was four feet tall." Jon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter VonBlum, 96 Village lane.

William Kleckner, of 253 Radcliffe street, Bristol, approached Tullytown Policeman Philip Fitzpatrick, Saturday, in the Levittown Shopping Center and turned over a purse he found containing a wallet with $200. Through identification cards, the wallet was returned to its owner, Mrs. Julia Longsdorf, 39 Evergreen lane. Last year, Mrs. Longsdorf found a purse containing about $200 and returned it to its owner. This is another example of "honesty is the best policy."

For the newcomer, The planning stage of Levittown began early in 1951. Nine months later, in October, field work started with the building of a vast network of roads, water and sewage disposal system, purification and treatment plants. Mass production of the houses started in the spring of 1952. The first homes were occupied in June of that year.

Children need the feeling of accomplishment and achievement. They collect a point of stability and self-respect from being taught with this self-respect and stable feeling the aspiration and ambition will be a direct result," he said.

Following the meeting at the high school, the teachers were to be the guests of the 36 participating businesses and industries in the area.

The school program was opened with the invocation by Dr. Fred R. Manthey Jr., of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Levittown. Delhaas High School's honor guard presented the colors in an impressive formation.

Robert H. Fraser, supervisor of secondary education, Delhaas High School, welcomed the industrialists on behalf of the teachers. "The more than 10,000 students represented at this meeting should profit in more ways than one from this meeting," he said.

There were no classes for students because of the meeting. John C. Johnson, president of the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, spoke on behalf of the Chamber, sponsors of B-E Day.

Warren P. Snyder, chairman of the committee for the schools, and Norman K. Vogel, director of the Chamber of Commerce, were introduced and applauded for their tireless efforts in making the event a success.

Crash Ruins Parked Car

A car parked on Indian Creek drive was wrecked last night when a motorist "moved over" to make room for an approaching car.

Bristol Township police said a car owned by Ricardo Cuenco, 43, of 360 Indian Creek drive, was parked in front of his home when a car driven by Shirley Althouse, 21, of 938 Neshamy street, Hulmeville, crashed into it.

The impact drove Cuenco's car 36 feet along the street and up over the curb onto the sidewalk. Police estimate it was damaged beyond repair. The woman told police she was forced to the side of the road by an oncoming car. She told police that automobiles were parked on both sides of Indian Creek drive and there wasn't enough room to pass.

She will be charged with reckless driving, police report.

Brennan, Kraus Tangle At Meeting

The two opposing candidates for state assembly from the second district tangled face-to-face last night in an unscheduled "debate" before the Bucks County Democratic Women's club.

The women had invited State Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan, Democratic seeking reelection, to speak at the meeting along with representatives of other Democratic candidates.

Brennan was in the midst of an attack on Rudolph Kraus, his Republican opponent, when Kraus walked into the meeting held at the Penn Valley school, Levittown.

In a statement on the meeting issued this morning, Brennan said he charged that Kraus, as a member of the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners inspected and approved streets he had built as a roadway contractor.

Calling this a "conflict of interests," Brennan said he and his attorney "are looking into it" to see if "anything more than the individual's questionable ethics is involved."

This morning Kraus denied that Brennan made the charge on the floor of the meeting last night. "He didn't have the guts to say it to my face," Kraus added.

He said that all the streets in the township are inspected by a committee of commissioners and the township engineer before they are accepted. He added that the "Democratic controlled Board of Commissioners" voted to accept the streets in question.

Despite Kraus' denial that Brennan made the statement several Democratic women attending said they heard the Assemblyman make the charge.

Kraus walked into the meeting just as Brennan was summing up his talk. Kraus was given a chance to answer charges made against him by Brennan at the end of the meeting. The Democratic crowd gave out several catcalls during his talk.

Brennan in his charge said that Kraus was the contractor who paved the streets in Bristol Homes and Bloomsdale Gardens. Then, Brennan said, as chairman of the highway committee last year, Kraus inspected the streets and voted to have the township accept them.

In another charge Brennan said several of Kraus' trucks had been

A.A. Auxiliary Sets Election

Election of officers will be held tonight at the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Pennsylvania Athletic association, when they meet at 8 o'clock in the cafeteria of the Makefield Elementary school.

The nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Andrew Keeffe, Mrs. Barton Ivins and Mrs. Raymond A. Carty will present the following slate of officers. President, Mrs. George R. Milne, vice president, Miss Margaret Ballantine, treasurer, Mrs. Barton Ivins, and secretary, Mrs. Richard Hammond.

Reservations for the bus trip to New York must be made by Oct. 9. Contact Mrs. Vera Rissman at Hyatt 3-3494. Profit from the trip will be used to further the work of the organization in aiding the Little League, Babe Ruth League, Minor League, and the American Legion Baseball.

The executive committee of the Men's organization of the Pennsylvania A. A. has been invited to attend tonight's meeting.

Bensalem

In their court petition, the supervisors point out that they may lose more than $25,000 in state aid if the auditors' report is not filed by Dec. 31.

The petition says that the state fund cannot be paid to the township for road repairs and upkeep until the audit is filed with the State Department of Highways. The supervisors say they may lose the money completely if the audit is notified by the end of the year.

They are, therefore, asking the court to order the auditors to complete their work by Oct. 31 and to properly file their audit.

The petition points out that any auditor who refuses or willfully neglects to file an audit is subject to $5 a day in fines plus costs. The supervisors further point out that the audit, under state law, should have been completed by March 1, or in the maximum 20-day extension period.

They say the work is still not completed and they feel it will not be done during the remainder of the year.

The petition also states that the audit of the books of the tax collector, justice of the peace, and the school board has not even started, although the audit for the next year is drawing close.

The petition explains that the audit of the township's books, the roadmaster and the treasurer are not completed although requests have been made.

PRR To Adjust Schedule Of Two Trains

With the timetable change effective Sunday, Oct. 28, the Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that the evening outbound commuter trains serving Bristol and Levittown will be adjusted a matter of minutes to provide more advantageous schedules for commuters living in those areas.

Thomas J. Costello, manager of suburban service, announced that the present "Levittown Express" will leave Suburban station at 5:17 p.m. and will arrive at Bristol at 5:51 p.m. and at Levittown-Tullytown at 5:57 p.m. and that the local train will leave three minutes after the express at 5:20 p.m. and will arrive at Bristol at 6:11 p.m. and Levittown at 6:16 p.m.

"At present the local leaves Suburban Station at 5:16 p.m. and the express at 5:20 p.m.," said Mr. Costello, adding that "by reversing the order of the two trains and operating the express ahead of the local a more efficient operation will be possible by eliminating the necessity of the express having to pass around the local as is necessary on the present schedule."

Mr. Costello explained that many passengers riding the express have asked the railroad to schedule the earlier departure as they believe it will be more convenient. He pointed out that on rare occasions passengers unable to "make" the express will ride the local train three minutes later.

Croydon Fire

Chief Smith explained the scrap paper is picked up from various machines in the plant and sent into the accumulator by a huge blower system. From the accumulator it is fed into a bailing machine.

He guessed the fire was caused when a piece of metal was picked up by the blower. He said the metal might hit the steel sides of the accumulator or the blower and cause a spark which ignited the paper.

The flames caused little damage, he said, but added that there might have been some damage from water from the overhead sprinkling system.

Fire Company 2 Quells 2 Blazes

Levittown Fire Company No. 2 was called to the home of Luis X. Burgos, 182 Goldenridge drive, last night about 6:30 p.m., to extinguish an exploded oil heater. The house was engulfed in thick, heavy smoke, firemen said, but only $150 damages were done. About 38 firemen responded to the alarm, the fire chief said.

Returning from the explosion, the unit was called to Benjamin Franklin Junior High school to put out a grass fire. Little damage was done, the fire chief said.

The twice-called unit then joined other units of Bristol township at Delhaas High school for the Fire Prevention week program.

Low Bucks Areas To Get Frost

Frost is due tonight in low-lying areas of Bucks County, but not in fields close to the warming effect of the Delaware River.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the temperature will dip to the 30's tonight. Tomorrow afternoon's high temperature will be close to 60.

300 View Show Put On At Delhaas

About 400 firemen and 10 fire trucks from Bristol Township's five fire companies gave a surprise demonstration of their fire fighting techniques last night at Delhaas High school.

The demonstration was a part of the Fire Prevention week program planned by the township's Fire Board.

Fred K. Hibbs, township fire co-ordinator and chief of the Edgely company, said the program was arranged to show the township Board of Commissioners what equipment was available to protect the township.

Mr. Hibbs, who is also a member of the Board of Commissioners, pointed out that the governing body helps support the volunteer companies.

As part of the demonstration, Croydon Fire Company's 75-foot aerial ladder was elevated over the high school to show how it could be used in fighting fires in big buildings.

Use of life nets also was illustrated when several firemen jumped from a first floor roof of the high school. Commissioner Rudolph Kraus also jumped 25 feet into the net as part of the show.

The other fire companies illuminated the school and grounds with flood lights from their trucks. All the activity attracted a crowd of about 300 persons who probably thought the high school was on fire, Mr. Hibbs said.

The demonstration was scheduled to start at 7 p.m. when sirens went off at all the fire houses, but the proceedings were delayed half an hour when Levittown Fire Company No. 2 received a real alarm.

The Levittown company had to take time out to extinguish a field fire near the Benjamin Franklin Junior High school, Mill Creek road.

Perfect

The heart of the Brooklyn batting order was due up in the eighth. Robinson fouled off a number of pitches before bouncing back to the mound. Hodges, who was robbed by Mantle in the fifth, sent a smash between short and third. Andy Carey raced to his left and caught the liner near his shoelaces. Just to make sure, Carey fired the ball over to Joe Collins at first. But third base umpire Larry Napp ruled that Carey had caught the ball.

Amoros finished the eighth with a routine fly to Mantle. Hearn was pounding. In the last of the eighth the first man up was Larsen and everyone in the stands (including this guy who picked the Dodgers in six games) stood up and cheered. "Take three swings and sit down and rest," a fan yelled. Larsen did just that. Maglie then fanned Bauer and Collins and not even the most ardent Yankee fans complained.

The tail-end of the Brooklyn batting order consisted yesterday of Carl Furillo, Roy Campanella and Maglie. With the sure pinch-hitter that was due up for the pitcher this was a tough trio for Larsen to get.

Furillo fouled off two pitches and then fled to Bauer.

So far so good. Campanella sent a long foul down the left field line and every-where. There was a deafening noise when Campy bounced out to Martin.

Two out. Mitchell, the former American Leaguer, came up to the plate. The tension was tremendous. Hardened writers wiped the sweat off their foreheads.

Larsen whirled over a called third strike and history was made. And I was there, "pitching" with Don Larsen on every pitch.

Two Cars Collide On U.S. Route 1

Two cars collided last night at 7:10 o'clock on U.S. Route 1 near the ramp leading to Route 13.

Richard Clark, 16, of 43 Union street, Morrisville, was traveling west on Route 1, when a car driven by Ralph Dericki, 40, of 31 Wild Rose lane, Levittown, started a right hand turn onto the ramp.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman West Worsman, of the Falls Township Police, assisted by Robert Gallagher.

'PERFECT! I Was There'--Borowsky

By BEN BOROWSKY
Courier and Times Sports Editor
EBBETS FIELD — Yes, I was there.

And as I sit here in the press box, waiting for the sixth game of the World Series to start, I still can't believe it. But it's true. I saw the first perfect game pitched in World Series history and the second such masterpiece in modern day baseball.

Yesterday I sat in Yankee Stadium, along with hundreds of other sportswriters and 64,519 fans, and thrilled like any other fan to the sight of Don Larsen as he put on the greatest pitching performance in baseball history.

I can say I saw this one. Nine years ago, via television, I watched another Yankee hurler, Bill Evans, bid for a no-hitter. That was in the 1947 World Series when pinch-hitter Cookie Lavagetto's two-out, ninth-inning double, not only sent Bill's prospective no-hitter crashing around his ears, but enabled the Dodgers to defeat him, 3-2.

But there was no comparison between Evens in '47 and Larsen yesterday.

To some it may seem monotonous or routine to put zeros down inning by inning on a score card. But it wasn't yesterday. With each passing inning I marked my score-board with increasing nervousness as Larsen approached baseball immortality.

For nearly four innings we had a double no-hitter in the making. Larsen retired the first 12 Dodgers in order. And his incomparable mound foe, Sal (The Barber) Maglie, had set 11 Yankees down in succession. But Maglie faded out of the picture when Mickey Mantle belted a homer—his third of the Series—in the lower right field stands, 440 feet from home plate. At the beginning of this World Series, I predicted a "routine" classic. But, believe me, this 1956 Series is rapidly becoming the classic of all classics. Just because of yesterday's brilliant gem alone.

Watching a no-hitter is a thrill in itself. But watching a pitcher toss perfect ball for nine innings is out of this world. I know. I was there.

From the very first batter (Junior Gilliam who was called out on strikes) to pinch-hitter Dale Mitchell, who took a third strike to end the game, every one of Larsen's 97 pitches was epic-making. And to witness such a feat in historic Yankee Stadium will stand as the greatest thrill in my many years of sportswriting.

Being one of the Fourth Estate, I have a duty to be non-partisan in reporting. But I couldn't help rooting for Larsen yesterday. Neither could the rest of the sportswriters, who from the seventh ining on, were pulling as a body for the Yankee chucker. Typewriters were stilled as we tugged at each pitch. Then, when Mitchell was called out on strikes, bedlam broke — both in the press box, throughout Yankee Stadium and I guess, all around the world.

In the fifth inning Jackie Robinson fled to right and Gil Hodges followed with a long drive to deep left center. Mantle made a tremendous running catch to keep "it" alive. Larsen had just a few difficult moments as he mowed the Brooks down.

Sandy Amoros came closest to spoiling the no-hitter and for that matter also the shutout. After Mantle robbed Hodges, Amoros sent a fly ball into the right field seats — foul by just a few feet. He then grounded out to Billy Martin at second and the crowd sighed.

In the sixth and seventh innings everybody was asking questions. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Bensalem Auditors Get Job Deadline

Supervisors File Writ, Demanding Oct. 31 Completion

The Bucks County Sheriff's office yesterday served a writ of mandamus on Bensalem Township's three auditors demanding they complete their delayed audit by Oct. 31.

The supervisors have filed the writ, which in effect is a legal term which seeks to have a public official perform his duty, in the Bucks County court.

Good Evening!

Yanks should wrap it up today.

We weren't there yesterday, but like 60 million others watching new World Series and baseball history being made, we were pitching just as hard as Don Larsen—especially the last inning.

That's baseball. That's why there's just no sport like it. That's why Americans so easily become afflicted with a certain wonder and joyous lunacy from early spring until the oaks turn scarlet.

Series nearly done, with election, United Fund and Bristol's 275th still to go.

Nobody can say this hasn't been an extremely interesting and stimulating autumn season. Hey, what are we going to do when the curtain falls on all of this feverish activity, anyhow?

Stevenson proposes a new program of compulsory health insurance with assurances that it isn't socialized medicine. Maybe not, but if the government should ever adopt such a plan it would certainly open the door to the political pill.

And President Eisenhower, speaking in Pittsburgh tonight, makes his bid for victory in Pennsylvania. Well, Ike shouldn't have too much difficulty. At the moment, we're not sure about the rest of the Republican ticket.

Anyhow, the Messrs. Curtin and Fullam are getting up steam in the Bucks-Lehigh Congressional battle.

Maybe the Democrats would be wise in stringing along with the rest of Bucks in condemning that disgraceful Darcy case decision, instead of trying to defend it. Here's one case in which the public simply won't be fooled.

Firemen Quell Schools, Industry Blaze Threat

A scrap paper fire which could have spread to the roof of Seaboard Container corp., Croydon, was ended quickly last night by the Croydon fire company.

The fire began in an accumulator in the State road plant at about 10 p.m.

Fire Chief William H. Smith reported the fire started in shredded scrap paper piled one foot deep in the 20-foot-square, metal accumulator.

The fire was confined to the accumulator, Chief Smith said, but flames shot up and out flues onto the roof of the building. As a precautionary measure the firemen elevated their aerial ladder to the roof in case the fire spread. But firemen inside the building (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Schools, Industry Join In B-E Day

By MAURY ALLEN
Courier and Times Staff Writer

Over 500 teachers and 36 industries teamed today in spreading the message of understanding and cooperation in Business-Education Day in Lower Bucks County.

Frederick J. Rarig, of Rohm and Haas, spoke for the industrialists at the general meeting at Delhaas High School and termed the problem of education, "an antique question that has plagued mankind for so very long."

Citing a passage from Aristotle, Mr. Haas said, "the question of what is to be taught has bothered thinking men for centuries. Should virtue or the best life be the prime motive? Should intellectual or moral virtue be of greater importance? Our problem is not new."

"When our way of life is engaged in a life and death struggle as we are now," Mr. Haas said, "continuation of our civilization depends on our capacity to transmit knowledge to our youth. They are the guardians of our civilization and this problem is yours," he told the educators.

Emphasis From Home
"Schools," he said, "cannot take up for the deficiency of civilization. The emphasis must come from the home, the family and the church."

Mr. Haas pointed out that industry has been accused of demanding the schools produce technicians at the expense of (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Residential Division Has $25,000 Quota In Lower Bucks

Area captains in the residential division of the Bucks County United Community fund are completing organization of teams throughout Lower Bucks to set out next week on a house-to-house canvass for $25,000.

Under the direction of Division Chairman Mrs. James S. Douglass, 601 Radcliffe street, Bristol, the division workers are preparing for their part in the largest and most spirited community effort in the history of Lower Bucks county. In Lower Bucks the total United Fund goal is 480,000, county-wide it is $603,000, to meet the urgent needs of 17 health, welfare, and public service agencies whose responsibilities have increased many-fold with the growing area.

The residential solicitation is timed to follow the work of most of the other United Fund divisions, now entering their second week of vigorous campaigning. Persons participating in the United Fund at their places of work are receiving window stickers which make it unnecessary for the residential solicitors to stop at their doors.

Going Strong

In the industrial division, with 40 per cent of its $380,000 goal already realized, company solicitations are continuing in high gear to fill the quota.

Council Writes Itself Letter

Yardley Borough Councilmen last night decided to send themselves a letter stating that he sidewalk in front of Borough Hall on South Main street is in need of repairs.

Some 35 property owners will receive similar notices. The Council also requested its solicitor Frederick T. Bebbington, to write a new sidewalk ordinance. There is one already in effect.

Beddington told Council that individual property owners would be primarily responsible should an accident occur due to defective walks.

However, he pointed out, the borough could be held responsible for not enforcing its ordinance. A council committee recently made an inspection of sidewalks in the borough and presented the list of sidewalks in need of repair at last night's meeting.

The decision on whether Pennsylvania Liquor Control Agents and other Commonwealth authorities have the right to "invade" New Jersey and operate a "spy ring," still lies in Burlington County Prosecutor Martin J. Queenan's hands today.

Boro Budget Faces Slicing

Because nobody seems to want to pay a good price for the Bristol borough-owned land at Routes 13 and 413, Borough Council may have to cut short $149,000 worth of services and improvements, it was disclosed last night.

The disclosure was made by Borough Treasurer James Eagan after Council took the advice of its finance and public property committee and rejected all bids for the land as too low.

At a special meeting last week the bidders had announced plans to erect bowling alleys and a restaurant, supermarket, service station and monument display yard on the property.

The officials had expected a price considerably higher than $149,000, which was the part budgeted for expenses this year. Finance and Public Property Chairman Henry Kornstedt would not say how much he expected, except that all bids were too low. Opened last week at a special session, they in- (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

DODGERS. Gilliam swung and missed. Bob Turley's first pitch, Martin fielded Gilliam's grounder and threw him out. Reese struck out on a sharp curve. Snider got the first Dodger hit in two games when he dropped a single into left field. Robinson lined to McDougald.

SECOND INNING

YANKS. Berra hit a line drive off the right field wall and was held to a single by fast fielding by Furillo. Slaughter rolled to Gilliam who forced Berra at second. Martin hit a high fly that Snider grabbed in short center. McDougald struck out swinging on a sharp breaking curve.

Levittown and its surroundings are being scoured today for a ten-year-old will-o-the-wisp wanderer who failed to return home last night.

Harry Ryan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, 31 Ravine lane, Red Cedar Hill, continues to elude a police dragnet and pleas of his parents to return home.

The boy's father, after talking to Harry's boy friends today, reported that a group of boys saw Harry early this morning. At that time, Harry claimed he spent the night near the Dairy Delite stand on U. S. Route 1.

Claiming that he had to attend a Cub Scout meeting last night, the elusive boy left home at 7 o'clock, last night.

A friend of Harry's, Howard Widley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Widley, 92 Ruby lane, reported that Harry was at his home until 9:30 and then left. Mr. Widley

When the boy did not return home by 10 o'clock, Mr. Ryan began calling Harry's boy friends but to no avail.

At 1 a.m. this morning, the Bristol Township Police were notified of the missing boy and started an investigation.

Harry is about four feet tall, weighs around 65 pounds, has gray eyes, sandy colored hair, and a light complexion. He was wearing brown pants, a brown shirt with yellow figure on the collar, brown shoes, and a gray jacket.

Under Doctor's Care
Mrs. Ryan is under doctor's care suffering from shock.

Two weeks ago, while playing with matches, Harry reportedly started a fire on the second floor of the Ryan home. The Levittown Fire Company was called and extinguished the blaze.

Flow Of Creek, Hydrant Discussed By Tullytown

Efforts to control the turbulent flow of Martins Creek in old Tullytown, and to install a fire hydrant at Main street and Fallsington avenue, occupied the attention of Tullytown Borough Council last night.

Council heard a report by William Major, councilman and borough engineer, that the State Department of Forests and Waters has agreed to clear and reshape the creek, which frequently floods in the lower borough after flowing from the Levittown section.

Map Creek Course

Mr. Major was directed to make a map of the creek course, necessary if the state is to do the improvement, at a cost of $200.

The Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority, in a letter to council, replying to a request for a hydrant at the Main street-Fallsington avenue corner, said it would cost $4800. The communication said the Authority would pay $800 of the cost, and suggested that businessmen of old Tullytown share the remaining $2000 expense with council.

The high expense is due to the need of extending the water line to the old part of town, which does not have water and sewer service. The Authority noted that the pipe line would make it possible for the rest of the area to have water service.

Councilman Michael Piroli was directed to contact the businessmen and see if they will contribute the $2000.

The Authority also announced that the term of William Swangler as a member will expire Dec. 1. Council President Peter Santoro named Councilmen Oscar Bortner, Edward Boyer and Charles Mitchell as a committee to recommend an appointee for the post.

Mercantile Tax

As finance chairman, Mr. Piroli said he is preparing to re-enact the mercantile tax on retail and wholesale business. Mr. Santoro said next year's budget will provide a sinking fund. The council president said he was informed the tax map of the borough, in 15 sections, will be completed Oct. 10. Council will buy one, for $37.50, to use in numbering the houses for mail delivery.

Mr. Major read the building inspector's report, by William Farquhar, which included a permit for the new high school building for St. Michael's Archangel Catholic Church, to cost $1,021,000. The permit cost $1026, he said.

John Steen, fire chief and fire marshal, said he conducted two surprise fire drills, in connection with Fire Prevention Week, at the Walt Disney elementary school the 330 pupils left the building in less than a minute, he said. At St. Michael's parochial school, it took less than two and one-half minutes for the 1700 children to evacuate. Mr. Steen commended authorities at the two schools.

Joint Services

Mr. Santoro named Mr. Major and Borough Solicitor Jack Sirott to meet with Bristol township officials and discuss joint services, provided Falls and Middletown

Tullytown Tax Assessments Rise

Tax assessments on a number of Tullytown properties have been greatly increased, Borough Solicitor Jack Sirott told Council last night.

Following tax appeals he filed, the attorney said the assessments on properties owned by Lionel Friedman and Co. were raised 12 and one-half to 16 percent; Halperin Co. properties by 60 to 500 percent; the William Penn Building and Loan Association by 250 percent and the Warner Co. properties by $63,000.

The Levittown Ski Club will meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the home of John Kane, 2 Goodrock road, Levittown.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

Congratulations are in order to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rush, 172 Goldenridge drive, on the birth of a baby girl, Theresa Mary, last week in Frankford Hospital in Philadelphia. We'll stick our neck out and say this was probably the biggest baby born in Bucks County this year. She was twenty-four inches long and weighed 11 pounds, and 10 1/4 ounces. Those Texans "ain't" got nothing on us.

Great snakes alive! In describing a black snake that wandered into the carport of Mr. and Mrs. William Betts, 97 Village lane, Violetwood, Jon VonBlum, age 9, said, "It was four feet tall." Jon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter VonBlum, 96 Village lane.

William Kleckner, of 253 Radcliffe street, Bristol, approached Tullytown Policeman Philip Fitzpatrick, Saturday, in the Levittown Shopping Center and turned over a purse he found containing a wallet with $200. Through identification cards, the wallet was returned to its owner, Mrs. Julia Longsdorf, 39 Evergreen lane. Last year, Mrs. Longsdorf found a purse containing about $200 and returned it to its owner. This is another example of "honesty is the best policy."

For the newcomer. The planning stage of Levittown began early in 1951. Nine months later, in October, field work started with the building of a vast network of roads, water and sewage disposal system, purification and treatment plants. Mass production of the houses started in the spring of 1952. The first homes were occupied in June of that year.

broad, liberalizing education in the humanities. "This is not so," he said. "Industry wants children with character, motivation and ambition. 'Children need the feeling of accomplishment and achievement. They collect a point of stability and self-respect from being taught. With this self-respect and stable feeling, the aspiration and ambition will be a direct result,' he said.

Following the meeting at the high school, the teachers were to be the guests of the 36 participating businesses and industries in the area.

The school program was opened with the invocation by Dr. Fred R. Manthey Jr., of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Levittown. Delhaas High School's honor guard presented the colors in an impressive formation.

Robert H. Fraser, supervisor of secondary education, Delhaas High School, welcomed the industrialists on behalf of the teachers. "The more than 10,000 students represented at this meeting should profit in more ways than one from this meeting," he said.

There were no classes for students because of the meeting. John C. Johnson, president of the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, spoke on behalf of the Chamber, sponsors of B-E Day.

Warren P. Snyder, chairman of the committee for the schools, and Norman K. Vogel, director of the Chamber of Commerce, were introduced and applauded for their tireless efforts in making the event a success.

Plans Are Made For Elks Club

A meeting was held last night of the organizing committee of the Levittown-Fairless Hills Elks club.

Committees were appointed and they will be announced at the next general meeting of the organization at the Mill Gate Restaurant at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 21. Interested persons are invited to attend and may contact A. D. Meek at WI 6-5970 for further information.

Kennel Club Lists Field Trial Talk

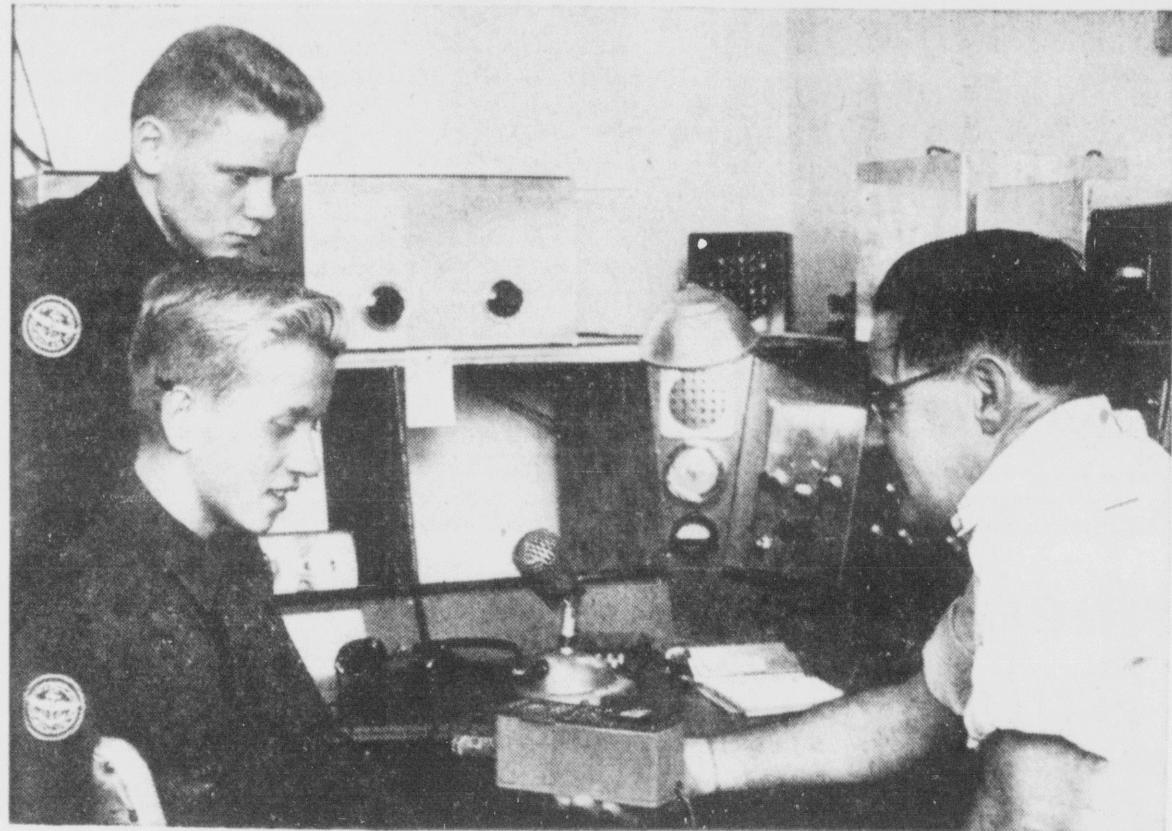

Nathan Putchak of Trenton, field trial chairman of the Gordon Setter Club of America, will discuss field trials at a meeting tonight of the Windsor Kennel Club at the William Penn Center, Fallsington, at 8 p.m.

He will also show a colored film on big game hunting. Election of officers for the coming year will be held.

FRENCH CLUB TO MEET

The French Club of Levittown will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the home of Mrs. Doris Lapenson, 33 Shepherd lane, Levittown. The program, scheduled to get underway at 8:30 o'clock, will be presented by Mrs. Lapenson. Her topic will be, "The Contemporary French Painter, Raoul Dufy."

Boy Scout Communicators

Brennan, Kraus Tangle At Meeting

The two opposing candidates for state assembly from the second district tangled face-to-face last night in an unscheduled "debate" before the Bucks County Democratic Women's club.

The women had invited State Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan, Democratic seeking reelection, to speak at the meeting along with representatives of other Democratic candidates.

Brennan was in the midst of an attack on Rudolph Kraus, his Republican opponent, when Kraus walked into the meeting held at the Penn Valley school, Levittown.

In a statement on the meeting issued this morning, Brennan said he charged that Kraus, as a member of the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners inspected and approved streets he had built as a roadway contractor.

Calling this a "conflict of interests," Brennan said he and his attorney "are looking into it" to see if "anything more than the individual's questionable ethics is involved."

This morning Kraus denied that Brennan made the charge on the floor of the meeting last night. "He didn't have the guts to say it to my face," Kraus added.

He said that all the streets in the township are inspected by a committee of commissioners and the township engineer before they are accepted. He added that the "Democratic controlled Board of Commissioners" voted to accept the streets in question.

Despite Kraus' denial that Brennan made the statement several Democratic women attending said they heard the Assemblyman make the charge.

Kraus walked into the meeting just as Brennan was summing up his talk. Kraus was given a chance to answer charges made against him by Brennan at the end of the meeting. The Democratic crowd gave out several catcalls during his talk.

Brennan in his charge said that Kraus was the contractor who paved the streets in Bristol Homes and Bloomsdale Gardens. Then, Brennan said, as chairman of the highway committee last year, Kraus inspected the streets and voted to have the township accept them.

In another charge Brennan said several of Kraus' trucks had been

Pennsbury Talks On System Change

Tentative plans for the revision of the secondary school system of Pennsbury School District, were discussed last night at a meeting of the district's school board.

Although nothing definite has been decided, Superintendent Medill Bair said, the favored plan is to inaugurate a system of junior high schools, intermediate junior high schools and senior high schools.

The move may be necessary, Mr. Bair said, to take care of the great influx of students into the secondary school system. The plan would not go into effect for several years, he said, if it is even adopted.

The board learned that the construction of the new Charles H. Boehm Junior High, stopped because of a steel shortage, would begin again in the near future and should be completed by the fall of 1957.

HILLS MEETING PLANNED

The Community Affairs department of the Fairless Hills Women's club will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George Hopkins, 353 Doone road, Fairless Hills.

PRRT To Adjust Schedule Of Two Trains

With the timetable change effective Sunday, Oct. 28, the Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that the evening outboard commuter trains serving Bristol and Levittown will be adjusted a matter of minutes to provide more advantageous schedules for commuters living in those areas.

Thomas J. Costello, manager of suburban service, announced that the present "Levittown Express" will leave Suburban station at 5:17 p.m. and will arrive at Bristol at 5:51 p.m. and at Levittown-Tullytown at 5:57 p.m. and that the local train will leave three minutes after the express at 5:20 p.m. and will arrive at Bristol at 6:11 p.m. and Levittown at 6:16 p.m.

"At present the local leaves Suburban Station at 5:16 p.m. and the express at 5:20 p.m.," said Mr. Costello, adding that "by reversing the order of the two trains and operating the express ahead of the local a more efficient operation will be possible by eliminating the necessity of the express having to pass around the local as is necessary on the present schedule."

Mr. Costello explained that many passengers riding the express have asked the railroad to schedule the earlier departure as they believe it will be more convenient. He pointed out that on rare occasions passengers unable to "make" the express will ride the local train three minutes later.

Croydon Fire

Chief Smith explained the scrap paper is picked up from various machines in the plant and sent into the accumulator by a huge blower system. From the accumulator it is fed into a bailing machine.

He guessed the fire was caused when a piece of metal was picked up by the blowers. He said the metal might hit the steel sides of the accumulator or the blower and cause a spark which ignited the paper.

The flames caused little damage, he said, but added that there might have been some damage from water from the overhead sprinkling system.

Fire Company 2 Quells 2 Blazes

Levittown Fire Company No. 2 was called to the home of Luis K. Burgos, 182 Goldenridge drive, last night about 6:30 p.m., to extinguish an exploded oil heater. The house was engulfed in thick, heavy smoke, firemen said, but only $150 damages were done. About 38 firemen responded to the alarm, the fire chief said.

Returning from the explosion, the unit was called to Benjamin Franklin Junior High school to put out a grass fire. Little damage was done, the fire chief said. The twice-called unit then joined other units of Bristol township at Delhaas High school for the Fire Prevention Week program.

Low Bucks Areas To Get Frost

Frost is due tonight in low-lying areas of Bucks County, but not in fields close to the warming effect of the Delaware River.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the temperature will dip to the 30's tonight. Tomorrow afternoon's high temperature will be close to 60.

300 View Show Put On At Delhaas

About 400 firemen and 10 fire trucks from Bristol Township's five fire companies gave a surprise demonstration of their fire fighting techniques last night at Delhaas High school.

The demonstration was a part of the Fire Prevention week program planned by the township's Fire Board.

Fred K. Hibbs, township fire co-ordinator and chief of the Edgely company, said the program was arranged to show the township Board of Commissioners what equipment was available to protect the township.

Mr. Hibbs, who is also a member of the Board of Commissioners, pointed out that the governing body helps support the volunteer companies.

As part of the demonstration, Croydon Fire Company's 75-foot aerial ladder was elevated over the high school to show how it could be used in fighting fires in big buildings.

Use of life nets also was illustrated when several firemen jumped from a first floor roof of the high school. Commissioner Rudolph Kraus also jumped 25 feet into the net as part of the show.

The other fire companies illuminated the school and grounds with flood lights from their trucks. All the activity attracted a crowd of about 300 persons who probably thought the high school was on fire, Mr. Hibbs said.

The demonstration was scheduled to start at 7 p.m. when six houses went off at all the fire houses, but the proceedings were delayed half an hour when Levittown Fire Company No. 2 received a real alarm.

The Levittown company had to take time out to extinguish a field fire near the Benjamin Franklin Junior High school, Mill Creek road.

Perfect

"Do you think he can do it?" "It's too much to ask, or is it?"

The heart of the Brooklyn batting order was due up in the eighth. Robinson fouled off a number of pitches before bouncing back to the mound. Hodges, who was robbed by Mantle in the fifth, sent a smash between short and third. Andy Carey raced to his left and caught the liner near his shoelaces. Just to make sure, Carey fired the ball over to Joe Collins at first. But third base umpire Larry Napp ruled that Carey had caught the ball.

Amoros finished the eighth with a routine fly to Mantle. Hearts were pounding.

In the last of the eighth the first man up was Larsen and everyone in the stands (including this guy who picked the Dodgers in six games) stood up and cheered. "Take three swings and sit down and rest," a fan yelled. Larsen did just that. Maglie then fanned Bauer and Collins and not even the most ardent Yankee fans complained.

The tail-end of the Brooklyn batting order consisted yesterday of Carl Furillo, Roy Campanella and Maglie. With the sure pinch-hitter that was due up for the pitcher this was a tough trio for Larsen to get.

Furillo fouled off two pitches and then fled to Bauer.

So far so good. Campanella sent a long foul down the left field line and everybody stood. There was a deafening noise when Campy bounced out to Martin.

Two out. Mitchell, the former American League, came up to the plate.

The tension was tremendous. Hardened writers wiped the sweat off their foreheads.

Larsen whisked over a called third strike and history was made. And I was there, "pitching" with Don Larsen on every pitch.

Two Cars Collide On U. S. Route 1

Two cars collided last night at 7:10 o'clock on U. S. Route 1 near the ramp leading to Route 13.

Richard Clark, 16, of 43 Union street, Morrisville, was traveling west on Route 1, when a car driven by Ralph Derick, 40, of 31 Wild Rose lane, Levittown, started a right hand turn onto the ramp.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman West Worsman, of the Falls Township Police, assisted by Robert Gallagher.

PERFECT! I Was There--Borowsky

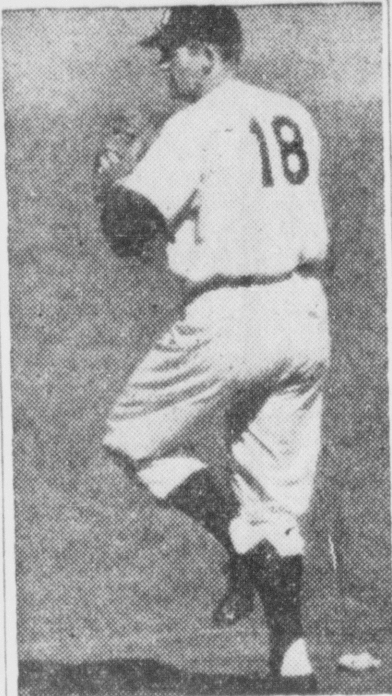

By BEN BOROWSKY

Courier and Times Sports Editor
EBBETS FIELD — Yes, I was there.

And as I sit here in the press box, waiting for the sixth game of the World Series to start, I still can't believe it. But it's true. I saw the first perfect game pitched in World Series history and the second such masterpiece in modern day baseball.

Yesterday I sat in Yankee Stadium, along with hundreds of other sportswriters and 64,519 fans, and thrilled like any other fan to the sight of Don Larsen as he put on the greatest pitching performance in baseball history.

I can say I saw this one. Nine years ago, via television, I watched another Yankee hurler, Bill Bevens, bid for a no-hitter. That was in the 1947 World Series when pinch-hitter Cookie Lavagetto's two-out, ninth-inning double, not only sent Bill's prospective no-hitter crashing around his ears, but enabled the Dodgers to defeat him, 3-2.

But there was no comparison between Bevens in '47 and Larsen yesterday.

To some it may seem monotonous or routine to put zeros down inning by inning on a score card. But it wasn't yesterday. With each passing inning I marked my score-board with increasing nervousness as Larsen approached baseball immortality.

For nearly four innings we had a double no-hitter in the making. Larsen retired the first 12 Dodgers in order. And his incomparable mound foe, Sal (The Barber) Maglie, had set 11 Yankees down in succession. But Maglie faded out of the picture when Mickey Mantle belted a homer—his third of the Series—in the lower right field stands, 440 feet from home plate. At the beginning of this World Series, I predicted a "routine" classic. But, believe me, this 1956 Series is rapidly becoming the classic of all classics. Just because of yesterday's brilliant gem alone.

Watching a no-hitter is a thrill in itself. But watching a pitcher toss perfect ball for nine innings is out of this world. I know. I was there.

From the very first batter (Junior Gilliam who was called out on strikes) to pinch-hitter Dale Mitchell, who took a third strike to end the game, every one of Larsen's 97 pitches was epic-making. And to witness such a feat in historic Yankee Stadium will stand as the greatest thrill in my many years of sportswriting.

Being one of the Fourth Estate, I have a duty to be non-partisan in reporting. But I couldn't help rooting for Larsen yesterday. Neither could the rest of the sportswriters, who from the seventh inning on, were pulling as a body for the Yankee chucker. Typewriters were stilled as we tugged at each pitch. Then, when Mitchell was called out on strikes, bedlam broke — both in the press box, throughout Yankee Stadium and I guess, all around the world.

In the fifth inning Jackie Robinson fled to right and Gil Hodges followed with a long drive to deep left center. Mantle made a tremendous running catch to keep "it" alive. Larsen had just a few difficult moments as he mowed the Brooks down.

Sandy Amoros came closest to spoiling the no-hitter and for that matter also the shutout. After Mantle robbed Hodges, Amoros sent a fly ball into the right field seats — foul by just a few feet. He then grounded out to Billy Martin at second and the crowd sighed.

In the sixth and seventh innings everybody was asking questions. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

SOUTHAMPTONITES PLAN MASS PROTEST

Bensalem Auditors Get Job Deadline

The Bucks County Sheriff's office yesterday served a writ of mandamus on Bensalem Township's three auditors demanding they complete their delayed audit by Oct. 13.

The supervisors have filed the writ, which in effect is a legal term which seeks to have a public official perform his duty, in the Bucks County court.

The auditors, Chester Korona, Frank Buck, and James Strange, have 20 days to answer.

In their court petition, the supervisors point out that they may lose more than $25,000 in state aid if the auditors' report is not filed by Dec. 31.

The petition says that the state fund cannot be paid to the township for road repairs and upkeep until the audit is filed with the State Department of Highways. The supervisors say they may lose the money completely if the audit is notified by the end of the year.

They are, therefore, asking the court to order the auditors to complete their work by Oct. 31 and to properly file their audit.

$5 a Day in Fines
The petition points out that any auditor who refuses or willfully neglects to file an audit is subject to $5 a day in fines plus costs.

The supervisors further point out that the audit, under state law, should have been completed by March 1, or in the maximum 20-day extension period.

They say the work is still not completed and they feel it will not be done during the remainder of the year.

The petition also states that the audit of the books of the tax collector, justice of the peace, and the school board has not even started, although the audit for the next year is drawing close.

The petition explains that the audit of the township's books, the roadmaster and the treasurer are not completed although requests have been made.

Today's Weather
Fair today with highest in the middle 60's. Clear and much cooler tonight, with some frost in the interior and lowest 32 to 40. Tomorrow fair and continued cool with highest near 60.

And President Eisenhower, speaking in Pittsburgh tonight, makes his bid for victory in Pennsylvania. Well, Ike shouldn't have too much difficulty. At the moment, we're not sure about the rest of the Republican ticket.

Anyhow, the Messrs. Curtin and Fullam are getting up steam in the Bucks-Lehigh Congressional battle.

Maybe the Democrats would be wise in stringing along with the rest of Bucks in condemning that disgraceful Darcy case decision, instead of trying to defend it. Here's one case in which the public simply won't be fooled.

United Fund Captains Set Home Drive

Residential Division Has $25,000 Quota In Lower Bucks

Area captains in the residential division of the Bucks County United Community fund are completing organization of teams throughout Lower Bucks to set out next week on a house-to-house canvass for $25,000.

Under the direction of Division Chairman Mrs. James S. Douglass, 601 Radcliffe street, Bristol, the division workers are preparing for their part in the largest and most spirited community effort in the history of Lower Bucks county. In Lower Bucks the total United Fund goal is $400,000, county-wide it is $603,000, to meet the urgent needs of 17 health, welfare, and public service agencies whose responsibilities have increased many-fold with the growing area.

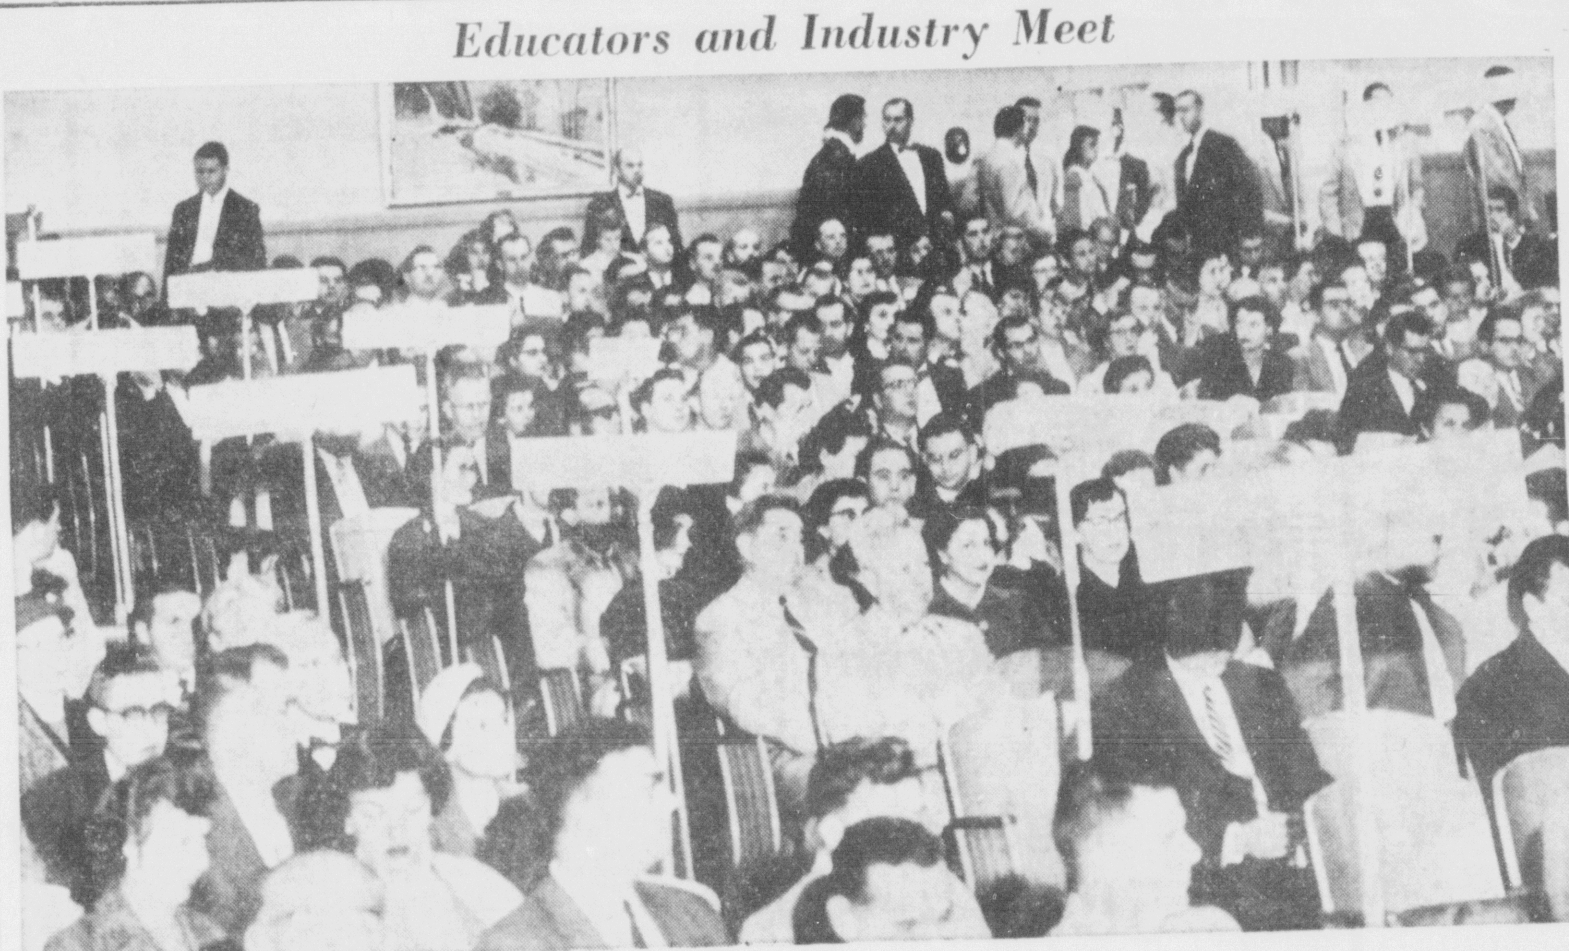

The residential solicitation is timed to follow the work of most of the other United Fund divisions, now entering their second week of vigorous campaigning. Persons participating in the United Fund at their places of work are receiving window stickers which make it unnecessary for the residential solicitors to stop at their doors.

Going Strong
In the industrial division, with 40 per cent of its $330,000 goal already realized, company solicitations are continuing in high gear to fill the quota.

The plant-wide drive among hourly workers of Rohm and Haas company was launched yesterday morning. As the Rohm and Haas drive opened, Plant Manager W. B. McCluer announced that in the advanced drive last week, top officials of the company and unions, and the foremen and shop stewards who are now solicitors have pledged $7724, or 30.9 per cent of the plant goal.

"We are most pleased with the results of the advanced solicitation," Mr. McCluer said. "This gives us every reason to believe the entire plant campaign will succeed."

Good Response
The plant manager said 98 per cent of the Rohm and Haas personnel contacted in the advance solicitation pledged contributions. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Official Sees Bigger Houses

Bigger houses on larger plots with better streets, sidewalks and sewage setups are coming to Lower Southampton Township proclaimed Myron Harris, township solicitor, last night.

In answer to township residents who argued against the large number of outside contractors building within Lower Southampton, Mr. Harris told a gathering at last night's meeting of the township supervisors that the proposed subdivision ordinance will bring "divergent regulations for builders."

Lower Southampton officials are in the midst of drawing up an extensive ordinance for the regulation of building projects. Mr. Harris said the requirements will make it necessary for developers to build homes in the $20,000 price range.

Tighter Requirements
"The supervisors are making requirements tighter and tighter," said the attorney. "We will get no fly-by-night builders under the new regulations, we will get the best." (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Schools, Industry Join In B-E Day

By MAURY ALLEN
Courier and Times Staff Writer

Over 500 teachers and 36 industries teamed today in spreading the message of understanding and cooperation in Business-Education Day in Lower Bucks County.

Frederick J. Rarig, of Rohm and Haas, spoke for the industrialists at the general meeting at Delhaas High School and termed the problem of education, "an antique question that has plagued mankind for so very long."

Citing a passage from Aristotle, Mr. Haas said, "the question of what is to be taught has bothered thinking men for centuries. Should virtue or the best life be the prime motive? Should intellectual or moral virtue be of greater importance? Our problem is not new."

"When our way of life is engaged in a life and death struggle as we are now," Mr. Haas said, "continuation of our civilization depends on our capacity to transmit knowledge to our youth. They are the guardians of our civilization and this problem is yours," he told the educators.

Emphasis From Home
"Schools," he said, "cannot take up for the deficiency of civilization. The emphasis must come from the home, the family and the church."

Mr. Haas pointed out that industry has been accused of demanding the schools produce technologists at the expense of a

Dr. Albert B. Sabin, a University of Cincinnati scientist, announced at a scientists' meeting Saturday that he is working on a vaccine that would be taken orally. He said he expected it to produce long-term immunity with a single dose.

The department said in a statement Monday that it will be a "long time" before Sabin's vaccine is fully tested.

The department urged parents to continue to have their children inoculated with Salk vaccine. It said that if inoculations are begun now the full three-shot dosage can be given by the next polio season.

Ike, Harry Invade Pa.

PITTSBURGH UP — As President Eisenhower carries his campaign here today to bolster Republican strength in Pennsylvania, the GOP administration is reeling from an attack by former President Truman last night.

Truman accused Eisenhower of wild punches and low blows in an effort to hide the record of the Republican administration. The former chief executive will wind up his two-day swing through Western Pennsylvania today with a news conference and speeches at East Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Westmoreland County.

President Eisenhower will address the nation over radio and television at 9 p.m. (EDT) from Hunt Armory. Earlier in the evening he is to speak twice to the

Residents Opposed To Zone Change

Hundreds Expected To Attend Meeting Thursday Night

Hundreds of residents, up in arms over a proposed zoning change, are expected to flock to Upper Southampton's municipal building Thursday night and create one of the stormiest sessions to ever come before the township's zoning board of adjustment.

Southampton citizens of Cushman and Kutcher roads, many residents of Rozel Park and others of that area are protesting rezoning which would allow expansion of the Schiller-Pfeiffer Inc. manufacturing plant.

Schiller-Pfeiffer, with frontage on Street road, plans expansion on ground extending back to Rozel avenue, between Cushman and Kutcher. The land in question is now listed as residential.

Aggravated By Tank
Many residents of the Kutcher-Cushman section have already been aggravated by a large tank behind the Schiller-Pfeiffer establishment. They claim the tank is not only dangerous because of its content, but claim it is in violation of zoning.

It is reported that petitions have been circulated and will be presented to township officials.

Depreciation of their properties is feared by the fighting residents, who also claim expansion would create a health hazard.

Schiller - Pfeiffer has about a 250-foot frontage on Street road. Depth of the property, including the land in question, is perhaps 1400 feet.

Mrs. Harold Carr, of 578 Kutcher road, said today, "We're all against it completely. We live right in back of it, and we were here before he was."

Look For Big Turnout
Mrs. Carr continued, "If everyone else has to abide by zoning rules, why shouldn't he? I hope we have a big turnout Thursday night."

In Good Hands

Little Charles "Chuckie" Corrigan, two-and-one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Corrigan, of 667 New Buckley street, Bristol, landed in good hands when he wandered away from his home yesterday morning. He was taken to the Bristol Borough Police Station where he was treated to an ice cream cone and pretzels. Brennan, Kraus Tangle At Meeting

The two opposing candidates for state assembly from the second district tangled face-to-face last night in an unscheduled "debate" before the Bucks County Democratic Women's club.

The women had invited State Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan, Democratic seeking reelection, to speak at the meeting along with representatives of other Democratic candidates.

Brennan was in the midst of an attack on Rudolph Kraus, his Republican opponent, when Kraus walked into the meeting held at the Penn Valley school, Levittown.

Brennan Statement
In a statement on the meeting issued this morning, Brennan said he charged that Kraus, as a member of the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners inspected and approved streets he had built as a roadway contractor.

Calling this a "conflict of interests," Brennan said he and his attorney "are looking into it" to see if "anything more than the individual's questionable ethics is involved."

Kraus Hurls Denial
This morning Kraus denied that Brennan made the charge on the floor of the meeting last night. "He didn't have the guts to say it to my face," Kraus added.

He said that all the streets in the township are inspected by a committee of commissioners and the township engineer before they are accepted. He added that the "Democratic controlled Board of Commissioners" voted to accept the streets in question.

Despite Kraus' denial that Brennan made the statement attending said they heard the Assemblyman make the charge.

Summing up Talk
Kraus walked into the meeting just as Brennan was summing up his talk. Kraus was given a chance to answer charges made against him by Brennan at the end of the meeting. The Democratic crowd gave out several catcalls during his talk.

Levitt Firm Donates Land For Library

By JIM ORT
Courier and Times Staff Writer

A plot of ground containing approximately 40,000 square feet (about two acres) was granted yesterday to the Levittown Public Library by Levitt and Sons, Inc., for a proposed new library building.

The ground, at the northwest corner of the Levittown and Mill Creek parkways, is accessible from all sections of Levittown, said Charles Fink, president of the board of directors of the library.

Express Thanks
In making the announcement for the library, Fink said a resolution has been passed expressing the gratitude of the Levittown Public Library, as well as the entire community, to the Levitt organization for its generosity.

"The strategic location and intrinsic value of this plot of ground, given us as a site for the Levittown Public Library, are an inspiration for us to go forward and create a truly adequate library facility for Levittown and the public, generally," Mr. Fink stated.

He also pointed out that the location is so convenient to the many schools in the area that it makes it doubly valuable, as over 40 per cent of the present registration represents children of school age and the library will offer a center for scholastic reference work and study.

"The need for expanding library facilities has become self-evident," continued Mr. Fink, "and it is now up to the people of Levittown, and to the officers and workers of the library, to unite our efforts to obtain a suitable building for our needs. We are extremely grateful to Mr. Levitt and his organization for this most welcome donation."

The site given was originally one of several offered to Bristol township for use as recreation areas, and was relinquished by the township for the library.

The Levittown Public Library is a free library supported by voluntary donations, maintained by volunteer workers.

Presently in the basement of the Towne Pharmacy, Five Corners shopping center, the library will continue to use its present facilities until a new building is obtained.

The library council will have its fall meeting Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the library. Groundwork for a public relations program leading up to a drive for donations for the new building will be laid.

Low Bucks Areas To Get Frost
Frost is due tonight in low-lying areas of Bucks County, but not in fields close to the warming effect of the Delaware River.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the temperature will dip to the 30's tonight. Tomorrow afternoon's high temperature will be close to 60.

L. S'hampton May Restrict Tree Planting

Lower Southamptonites may be restricted to the planting of certain trees if a proposed ordinance is established by the Township supervisors.

Township officials announced last night that a tree ordinance was about to be written. Major reason for such action is the possible future extension of water and sewage lines and other piping.

The ordinance would rule out trees with destructive roots—those which cause trouble with underground utilities.

The supervisors also announced that the large tree on Brownsville road, near C avenue, which has brought alarm to residents of the area, will be cut down shortly. Brownsville road residents claimed the tree might fall causing destruction.

Correspondence from the owner of property in question has been received by the supervisors. It grants tree-cutting permission. The supervisors announced that proper authorities will be notified.

broad, liberalizing education in the humanities.

"This is not so," he said. "Industry wants children with character, motivation and ambition."

"Children need the feeling of accomplishment and achievement. They collect a point of stability and self-respect from being taught. With this self-respect and stable feeling, the aspiration and ambition will be a direct result," he said.

Following the meeting at the high school, the teachers were to be the guests of the 36 participating businesses and industries in the area.

The school program was opened with the invocation by Dr. Fred R. Mantley Jr., of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Levittown.

Delhaas High School's honor guard presented the colors in an impressive formation.

Robert H. Fraser, supervisor of secondary education, Delhaas High School, welcomed the industrialists on behalf of the teachers.

"The more than 10,000 students represented at this meeting should profit in more ways than one from this meeting," he said.

There were no classes for students because of the meeting.

John C. Johnson, president of the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, spoke on behalf of the Chamber, sponsors of B-E Day.

Warren P. Snyder, chairman of the committee for the schools, and Norman K. Vogel, director of the Chamber of Commerce, were introduced and applauded for their tireless efforts in making the event a success.

Bigger Houses

will have bigger houses, and no one who wants to make a quick buck will come in under the new ordinance," he said.

Mr. Harris commented that the proposed subdivision ordinance is about 30 pages long. "Builders won't be able to put up cheap houses," he said, adding that extensive bond coverage will be necessary.

Supervisor Robert Habgood mentioned that under the new setup houses must be on 20,000 square feet to meet R-1 requirements and on 12,000 in areas zoned R-2.

Lee Starr Accepts Position In Texas

Lee Starr, managing director of Pomeroy's Department Store in the Levittown Shopping Center, has resigned his post effective immediately to accept a position as managing director of the Titcher Goettinger Store in Dallas, Texas.

Appointed managing director of Pomeroy's was Mort Miller, assistant managing director of the store.

The changes were announced yesterday by Mr. Berl Puckett, chairman of the board of Allied Stores.

In Lebanon Post
Before becoming managing director of Pomeroy's, Mr. Starr was previously managing director of the L. Samler Company in Lebanon, Pa.

Grant Stores To Mark 50th Anniversary

W. T. Grant Company officials have designated the week starting Thursday, Oct. 18 as "50th Anniversary Celebration Week" to commemorate the founding of the nation-wide family of stores in 1906, according to Mr. Isaacson, manager of the company's local Grant store at 216 Mill street.

Highlight of the celebration will be a store-wide nine-day sale, planned to be the most dramatic store-wide sale event in the company's history. "It's the best way we know to thank folks for their support over the years," manager Isaacson stated. "Our 62 home office buyers in New York have been working for the past six months to bring together a great barrage of bargains suitable to mark so memorable a milestone."

In 1906 William T. Grant started his first Grant store in Lynn, Mass., determined to see "not how much could I get, but how much could I give." He found out pretty quickly that customers welcomed his new kind of store that measured its profits in more pennies and relied on quick, high volume turnover for growth. Requests increased for him to open such a store in neighboring cities and in 1908, he opened his second store in Waterbury, Conn. Thus started the giant family of over 600 stores which today serve millions of families with most of their general merchandise requirements.

Grant stores are to be found in 42 of the 48 states. Mr. Grant continues to serve his company as chairman of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. C. Heppes Succumbs

Mrs. Clarence Heppes, wife of Upper Southampton Township's police chief, died yesterday in Abington Hospital after a 15-week illness.

Mrs. Heppes, a life-long resident of Southampton, resided at 736 Plum street. She is survived by her husband and three children.

Friends may call at the William Rowen Grant Funeral Home, Second Street pike, Southampton, tomorrow evening.

Interment will be at the Sunset Memorial Park cemetery at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Mental Health Leaders Meet

Governor George M. Leader has requested leaders in the field of mental health to attend a conference in Harrisburg today at the Penn Harris hotel.

Bucks County is represented at the conference by Mrs. Elliston Morris, Southampton, president of the Bucks County Mental Health society; Mrs. Philip Naumburg, Doylestown, corresponding secretary of the society; the Rev. Paul Corson, Doylestown, minister of the First Methodist Church, Doylestown, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Society.

Other representatives of the county will be Mrs. Samuel Labstain, Levittown, co-chairman of the Lower Bucks County Mental Health committee of the Bucks County Mental Health society; Mrs. Joseph Goldberg, Levittown, an active member of the society.

GI Insurance Dividends Go Up
WASHINGTON—UP—The Veterans Administration announced today that dividends to be paid next year to veterans holding World War II government insurance will be about 13 per cent higher than those paid this year.

The increase will go to some five million veterans covered by both term and permanent policies of National Service Life Insurance (NSLI), the VA said.

2nd Meeting Planned After First Fails

Efforts by the Cayuga Savings and Loan company, Philadelphia, to take over Feasterville Heights through foreclosure failed on the first attempt.

However, Lower Southampton Township supervisors announced last night that difficulties causing the negative action are expected to be smoothed out soon. The officials anticipate foreclosure action after the next meeting of principals in the case.

They explained that failure at the present time was due to "certain demands about street construction and other matters made by the supervisors."

The Cayuga mortgage holders hope to bring long-sought improvements to the residents of Feasterville Heights by taking over the development.

Citizens of the Heights have asked for relief from what they claim are poor development conditions ever since the Bushkoff firm, builders, declared bankruptcy leaving the project incomplete.

Cayuga reported it has set aside enough money to complete the unfinished roads and to take care of a ditch which has long-plagued residents, as well as completing the project.

Perfect

"Do you think he can do it?" "It's too much to ask, or is it?"

The heart of the Brooklyn batting order was due up in the eighth. Robinson fouled off a number of pitches before bouncing back to the mound. Hodges, who was robbed by Mantle in the fifth, sent a smash between short and third. Andy Carey raced to his left and caught the liner near his shoetops. Just to make sure, Carey fired the ball over to Joe Collins at first. But third base umpire Larry Napp ruled that Carey had caught the ball.

Amoros finished the eighth with a routine fly to Mantle. Hearts were pounding.

In the last of the eighth the first man up was Larsen and everyone in the stands (including this guy who picked the Dodgers in six games) stood up and cheered. "Take three swings and sit down and rest," a fan yelled. Larsen did just that. Maglie then fanned Bauer and Collins and not even the most ardent Yankee fans complained.

The tail-end of the Brooklyn batting order consisted yesterday of Carl Furillo, Roy Campanella and Maglie. With the sure pinch-hitter that was due up for the pitcher this was a tough trio for Larsen to get.

Furillo fouled off two pitches and then died to Bauer. So far so good.

Campanella sent a long foul down the left field line and everybody. There was a deafening noise when Campy bounced out to Martin.

Two out.

Mitchell, the former American Leaguer, came up to the plate.

The tension was tremendous. Hardened writers-wiped the sweat off their foreheads.

Larsen whisked over a called third strike and history was made. And I was there, "pitching" with Don Larsen on every pitch.

Dulles To Outline Stand On Suez

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—UP—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles goes before the Security Council today to outline the U.S. position in the Suez Canal crisis. Egyptian sources said the council's ability to resolve the dispute depended on what he said.

Dulles was the last speaker in the general policy debate which opened the council's momentous discussion of the Suez situation. He followed Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic whose speech opened the session.

Fire Company 2 Quells 2 Blazes

Levittown Fire Company No. 2 was called to the home of Luis X. Burgos, 182 Goldenbridge drive, last night about 6:30 p.m., to extinguish an exploded oil heater. The house was engulfed in thick, heavy smoke, firemen said, but only $150 damages were done. About 38 firemen responded to the alarm, the fire chief said.

Returning from the explosion, the unit was called to Benjamin Franklin Junior High school to put out a grass fire. Little damage was done, the fire chief said.

The twice-called unit then joined other units of Bristol township at Delhaas High school for the Fire Prevention Week program.
